

Local data, tested before farm decisions

A traceable path from observations to action, with uncertainty kept visible.

Start with a small local baseline. Expand only when additional data changes a real decision.